

Instructions for non-English Knowledge Repository files

1. Entering the C-Track 50 Knowledge Repository.

In order to access the Knowledge Repository, you should enter into the C-Track 50 Website, which is www.c-track50.eu. Afterwards, you hover your cursor over the “Results & Synergies” tab and a drop-down menu appears. In this menu, you click on the “Knowledge Repository” tab.

2. The Knowledge Repository interface

Once you have clicked on the “Knowledge Repository” tab, the following page opens, which is the English version of this feature providing a search engine for every file having an English title. In this section, you can find every file that has an English title regardless of the language of the original document.

The Knowledge Repository is a significant dissemination portal targeting municipalities and other interested stakeholders so as to inform them on issues regarding renewable energy and energy efficiency applications on a local or regional level. The documentation available through this tool comprises of EU strategic documents, national/regional energy and climate plans, other national plans related to C-Track 50's agenda or plans on a municipal level, legislative acts on renewable energy and energy efficiency, as well as tools such as energy calculators, or links to registries of certified technicians.
